Conditions of use*

1. Purchased reproductions (digitised material/copies) of image materials from the image archive of the Herder Institute, Marburg, may only be used once and exclusively for the purpose stated overleaf. They may not be passed to third parties nor filed in other collections accessible by the public without the written agreement of the Herder Institute. All copyrights - if they exist - shall remain in the possession of the image archive of the Herder Institute, Marburg.
2. If reproductions of image materials are made available by the image archive of the Herder Institute, Marburg, the rights to which are owned by a third party or are unclear, then the user shall bear the responsibility for clarifying the legal situation and shall also meet any justified demands made by the third party.
3. In the case of using image materials and information whose content involves persons who are still alive or who died less than 30 years ago, the user shall bear the responsibility of observing their personal rights and, if necessary, shall also meet any justified demands made by the third party.
4. In the case of publication, the written agreement of the image archive must be obtained in all cases. A new application must be made in the case of all subsequent editions and reprints - this also applies for parts of the publication stated above if they involve photos/digitised material from the image archive of the Herder Institute.
5. Approval for use of the image material must be applied for using the available form in duplicate. This approval is considered to be given for the publication and production listed overleaf on payment of the production costs and image royalties, and on receipt of a copy of this agreement returned by the image archive.
6. In the case of reproduction of the photos, the Herder Institute, Marburg, image archive - must be stated as the owner of the original - if possible - in the image caption and in all cases in the photo credits. Commercial exploitation (particularly posters, postcards, reproduced slides, all types of reproductions, videos and all forms of multimedia use) requires the written agreement of the Herder Institute and is subject to a charge.
7. The applicant is obliged to pay all costs that fall due (research, production of copies/digitised materials, etc.) and fees (image royalties/reproduction fees); an appropriate invoice will be sent. As a rule, a reference copy of the intended publication must be sent without being requested and free of charge to the image archive of the Herder Institute, Marburg.
8. The reproduction fee may be reduced in justified cases, particularly in the case of academic publications in smaller editions (e.g. self-publication), academic institutes and publications in which the Herder Institute is expressly interested.
9. If the publication contains a selection of the photos produced by the image archive, the image archive must be informed of the illustrations involved when going to press.
10. Contractual penalties will be due if the contractual conditions above are flouted. In the case of missing or incorrect evidence of origin, the image royalty shall be increased 100%; in the case of misuse of image materials provided by the image archive of the Herder Institute, this shall be increased 500%.

Place of fulfilment and court of jurisdiction is Marburg
